

as a direct tv subscriber for 6 years i am very unhappy with the current regulations regarding nfl ticket holders. i pay a premium to get every football game every sunday. this year however i found out(while trying to watch opening day) that ths is no longer true. if a game is being shown on a local access channel it is no longer available on nfl ticket channel whether i have a local channel or not. up until last year because of the remoteness of the area i live in (the outer banks of nc) we could not get ANY local channels so therefore if i didn't have local channels i would be missing at least 3 games per week that were being shown on those local channels. therefore i feel as though those of us who are paying $125.00 per season for every game should have the rate reduced to exclude those games which are shown on local channels.
